R. B. BENNETT'S MEETING

CONSERVATIVE LEADER SPEAKS

Land Question Discussed at Length—The School Question Very Carefully Handled—Little Enthusiasm.

Ross Hall was crowded last night at Strathcona to hear R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader of Alberta. The meeting was a very attentive one and gave the speaker a good hearing. There was practically no enthusiasm and the cheer for Premier Rutherford was by far the heartiest response of the evening.

Mr. Bennett was an exceedingly mild mannered young man last evening and the greater part of his address was taken up with criticism of the land clauses of the autonomy bill. He handled the school question very gingerly and with a sort of apologetic air, far different from his built-in-china-shop methods of attacking it in London and North Oxford a few months ago.

Mr. J. J. Duggan, president of the Strathcona Conservative Association, occupied the chair. He explained that it was the first Conservative meeting held in Strathcona since the forming of the new province. Several speakers who were to attend were absent so he called on Mr. J. W. Shera, of Fort Saskatchewan.

Mr. Shera stated he was pleased to be present at the meeting with Mr. Bennett. He had been in the North West legislature with Mr. Bennett and no man worked harder for the people than the leader of the Conservative party in Alberta. He was proud when Mr. Bennett was elected leader of the party. He expressed the opinion that he (himself) would be returned for the electoral district of Victoria at the approaching election. The chairman then introduced R. B. Bennett as the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Bennett thanked the audience for their kind reception and hoped that no matter what their political feelings were that the kindest personal feelings should prevail. He knew Premier Rutherford and regarded him as a man of honor and of probity. He had sat with him in the North West Legislature and esteemed him and regarded him as an honest man. He had a warm personal friendship for Mr. Rutherford but he differed with him politically. Never in the history of the Dominion was there before the people a question of greater moment or higher importance than now. We must decide whether the men in high places had proved recreant to the trust imposed in them or not. He then sketched at some length the incidents which led up to Confederation. He said the constitution of Canada is a written document that he who runs may read. The British North America Act was passed to create a Federal Union of the provinces each with its own legislature and with equal powers and was not meant to create any one province as a weak inferior creature below or under the other. He said the B.N.A. provides for the distribution of provincial powers, and under it each province should have the same rights and powers as the others. To the Ottawa Government was given the power to legislate exclusively upon matters of tariff banks and banking, currency, etc., and other subjects of broad and national importance. Under the act each province was given an equal and co-extensive powers and no one province was intended to be raised up with limited powers.

Section 109 of the B.N.A. he said, gave to the provinces the mines, minerals and lands of the provinces and they should be given to this province. It was not enough to say we had made a good bargain, a few paltry dollars should not be considered as compensation for one of our valuable rights. Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and British Columbia owned their mines and lands and timber and were reaping large revenues from the same.

He read the section of the act by which British Columbia was admitted to the union and was given the same rights as to education and control of lands as the other provinces. He explained the charter of the Hudson's Bay Company, and the means by which Rupert's Land was surrendered by the company to the crown, and upon this being done an order in council was passed on June 15, 1870, by which it was ordered that Rupert's Land and the North-West Territories should be admitted into and become part of the Dominion of Canada. Yet people say we were no part of the Union until September 1. If not, where were we? Whose laws were in force in this part of the country?

Having come into the union the Parliament of Canada had the power to enact laws for these Territories. Manitoba came in as a province at the same time, but she didn't get the same privileges as the other provinces, so she went to the Imperial Parliament and got an act to ratify her constitution. Manitoba didn't get all her land, but she got millions of acres of swamp lands which are worth vast sums of money today. Hon. Alex. McKinnon, with the large foresight which characterized that great man, decided to erect this section of the country into Territories rather than provinces. The Territories were first governed by ordinances and had a legislative council which was afterwards enlarged into a legislative assembly, and Hon. E. W. G. Haultain was elected first premier of the Territories.

Mr. Bennett claimed to have been a champion of provincial autonomy ever since coming to the country and gave a detailed history of all the requests made for the section of this part of Canada into a province. He described the draft bill prepared by Mr. Haultain and his colleagues, which the speaker claimed would have given these provinces the same rights and privileges as the other provinces possessed. This draft bill, he stated, was approved by Messrs. Rutherford, Finlay, DeVeber, Wolfe and Rosenroll, and now these men were supporting something else. When were they right, he asked, then or now? He, the speaker, had stood up for the provisions of this draft bill then and he stood for it still. It is stated by my opponents, he said, that I am the minion of corporations. No man spoke more strongly than I in favor of compensation for the C. P. R. lands. I am ready to serve either persons or corporations in the practice of my profession to the best of my ability, but I am under the thumb of no corporation. My time, talents and energy will be given to the service of this province. If I am elected to a responsible position in its service.

He said no one had a right to say the West was satisfied with the terms of the Autonomy Bill. We were to receive $375,000 a year, which would increase to $1,125,000 in ten years. But we had a hundred million acres of land, we could give 50,000,000 acres in homesteads and if we sold the other 50,000,000 acres at only $2 per acre, it would bring $100,000,000 which at 3 per cent would give us a revenue of $3,000,000 per annum. Not an inch of land, a drop of water, or an ounce of mineral was given to the province, we had nothing but the air and the prospect. Our assets consisted of Faith, Hope and Charity. The great coal and gas deposits belonged to Ottawa. He referred to the plan of New Zealand by which farmers could obtain a loan of $500 at 4 per cent interest from the Government. Now, he said, to secure land or mineral rights we have to go to Ottawa and then have to have a pull. He would not say that one party was better than another, but this province should own its lands, so that there could be no exploitation of our lands, minerals and timber at Ottawa and probably later we would find the assets of this province peddled off to favorites. The lands of people belong to the people and we must carry on the fight until the Dominion parliament handed over the lands to the provincial government.

In 1898 the Dominion Government gave to Quebec a large territory next Hudson's Bay, and as she did to Quebec she must do to the men of the West.

The constitution given to these new provinces also differed from that of the others in regard to education. The state owes it as a duty to the country to educate its children. The end the state has in view is not to teach dogma or creed, the state is not interested in how a man worships his God. He, the speaker, yielded to no man in liberality or toleration of all classes or creeds, but the state recognized no church or religion.

In the control of our educational system the Parliament of Canada has said we are not as good as the other provinces. If the Parliament of Canada a right to come in and make a special constitution for us? Has the Parliament of Canada a right to unhook hands upon the constitution of Canada? Some day this province may want a system of national schools, but the Parliament of Canada says you cannot. Are you, or the men who sit at Ottawa the best judges of this matter? They say we have the finest school system in the world, and it is what the people want. If it is, then why do they want to impose it on us for. Does an accident of geography make the people of these provinces an inferior people or our legislatures inferior legislatures?

The remedy was to carry on an agitation until there is a government at Ottawa that will give back to the people their lands, mines and royalties. He sketched some of the great reforms secured through agitation.

He asked the people to go into this agitation and not to deny themselves the rights of responsible government so that their boys would not look back and remember them with curses and that they might feel they had acquired themselves like men.

If honors with the support of the people we would go to the highest court in the realm and test the school clauses, as he believed no parliament of Canada had the right to arrogate to itself the power to so change the constitution. By the memories of Brown, Nowar and Haultain's former rights he called upon citizens to join him.

I have given you two bare bald facts, he said; go home and think calmly over them. First chance goes by forever if the first legislature enacts this school law, then it cannot be changed. If we go to the Privy Council we avoid strife in the future. If the Government of Canada can give us a school law, why cannot it give us control of the tariff and postal affairs? Our first plea is go to the courts; the second to agitate the wrongs may be undone regarding our lands and mines. The question each elector must ask is, Have you done your duty by your children? Let the future generation be able to say "These men saw their duty and they did it."

Mr. O. Bush then spoke for a few minutes. He said that if made Premier Mr. Bennett would resign the leadership of the C. P. R. The speaker expressed his annoyance at the Bulletin for making this solicitation public. He didn't believe in race and creed cries, but stood for provincial rights.

The meeting closed with cheers for Bennett and rousing cheers for Premier Rutherford.

RESCHOOL DESKS

Editor Bulletin:

I see by an item in yesterday's issue that the public school trustees are having some difficulty in providing accommodation for all of the school children of the city, not only as to housing them, but also in seating. On making enquiries I am told they are waiting for a certain dealer to get in a car of desks from Ontario. To me this seems very strange knowing that school furniture, desks, etc., are manufactured right in our city, the necessary raw material being brought in and made up here, iron and all, thus giving employment to a number of men, who, in turn help to support the city. There is evidently something wrong. Either our trustees are of the unprogressive class, they do not take an interest in the welfare of the city in which they get a living, or else the desk made here must be of an inferior quality. On the other hand, I am assured by the manufacturer that they are equal to the best desk made in Ontario, and if the samples that are to be seen in Queen's avenue school are what our trustees call first class desks from Ontario, then their knowledge of such things must be very limited, and they had better engage a competent person with progressive ideas to do their business. Not only this but I understand that they pay considerably more for these desks than the local maker charges. I am also informed that several of the trustees have been invited to the factory, where they can inspect the desks in process of manufacturing, and be convinced of their superiority, but so far none have availed themselves of this opportunity. Why? I certainly think an explanation is in order as to why our trustees do not support local enterprise.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

CRICKET

For the second time this season Edmonton and Strathcona united together and played in an enjoyable match at Wetsakwin on Monday, Sept. 17th, against the Bittern Lake XI. The result was a victory for the former by ten wickets. In the first innings the home side was dismissed for 22, O. L. Boyes taking 6 of their men for 8 runs. Two of their best batsmen were run out.

The combined team obtained a lead of 71 on the first innings, Stoeck and Boyes being their principal contributors. The total was 93 to 22. The former score and the second innings of their opponents appear in detail below.

The visitors were most hospitably entertained at Wetsakwin by Mr. E. C. Roper whose kindness is much appreciated. Four substitutes were found on the ground only three from Strathcona and four from Edmonton being able to take advantage of the trip.

POLITICAL

LIBERAL CONVENTION

A Liberal convention for the Red Deer constituency is announced to be held on September 28.

FAVORABLE TERMS.

This is the finding of the St. John Sun, the leading Conservative organ in the province of New Brunswick:
"The province of Alberta, which commenced business yesterday, was compared to have a population of 123,000 at the beginning of the year.
But the financial basis of union assumes a population of 250,000. This is considerably less than the population of New Brunswick. Alberta starts out with an allowance from Ottawa of $1,002,225, which is 50 per cent. more than the total revenue of this province from all sources."

DR. CLARK AT CARSTAIRS

Carstairs, Sept. 18.—Dr. Clark, in pursuance of his candidature for the Rossburn constituency, addressed a meeting at Carstairs on Friday evening. Dr. Clark's hall was comfortably filled with an attentive and appreciative audience. Dr. Barber, of Carstairs, presided. The candidate, in an hour's address, promised that at a future meeting he would compare in detail the Liberal and Conservative platforms in this campaign, and dwell at length on the subjects of provincial rights, the lands and the schools.

The points of the address were followed with care throughout, no dissident voice was raised, and the speaker was heartily applauded on resuming his seat.

PINCHER CREEK CONSERVATIVES RESOLVE

The following is the resolution of the Pincher Creek Conservatives at the recent convention upon the school question:
"Resolved that in the opinion of this convention it is a matter for regret that the Conservatives in convention at Red Deer on August 16 last, should have resolved to test the legality of the clauses in the Alberta Autonomy Act in regard to education, in the courts, in as much as, no matter how improper or the interference of the Dominion Parliament in the affairs of the province may have been, so far as the question has been taken out of our hands by such action of the Dominion, it will but lead to needless trouble among the people of the West to raise any such discussion.
And this convention further wishes to put on record its complete satisfaction with the school system as at present administered in Alberta."

POTTER & McDOUGALL

PROMINENT FINANCIER ON THE WEST

(Toronto News)

"Canada's big crop this year will make a long column in the country's credit account. With all the deficiencies of past years we have been spending money like lords. We have been drawing on the future. This year with its unprecedented big income from natural resources clear from the coal land to the salmon country will put us squares with ourselves. This is largely epitomized in the great Northwest."

Bank managers as a class are not given to romancing. Mr. Byron E. Walker, who gave the above statements to a reporter, is less of a romanticist than even the average bank manager. He has just returned from the Northwest whither he went to be present at the inaugural of the new provinces. For the first time in his life he has seen practically the whole Saskatchewan Valley. Mr. Walker went by the C.N.R. with Mr. Wm. Mackenzie, in a private car, as far as the head of the steel. The untraveled 160 miles he drove in a construction backboard to Edmonton, and the Pullman that carried the president of the C.N.R. and the general manager of the Bank of Commerce, went through a land which four years ago was a great tentative solitude, haunted by the coyote and waiting for the settler.

MARVELLOUS NATURAL

"From Dauphin here," he said, "after leaving the Red River Valley, we passed through what I should say is the most extensive and marvellous wheat belt in the whole world. On this point I am open to correction. But as the railway runs, there are 800 miles of wheat stations: land capable of raising the very finest of wheat, as well as oats, barley, vegetables in abundance, small fruits, cattle, hogs and sheep."

Mr. Walker sat down again and said almost extravagant things about the black loam of the Saskatchewan Valley; loam which in ditches at various intervals was seen to run six feet deep; in other places land with a subsoil of gravelly clay; everywhere the strongest of soil, capable of the most strenuous cropping and practically ready for the plow.

"I never saw such untrammelled natural growth," he said. "Everywhere the native grasses and the pea-vine; grasses so luxuriant that they are often preferred to cultivated timothy meadow for cattle; gardens unstinted and prodigal with the most tremendous growth, a land abounding in natural drainage, even where the land is flat, as it was in our Ontario counties of Essex, Kent and Lambton—capable with slight artificial drainage of raising most magnificent crops."

WHEAT AND CATTLE

"Did you observe much crop in the upper Saskatchewan land?" Mr. Walker was asked.

"In isolated sections almost everywhere," was the reply. "And wherever we saw wheat crop it was simply immense. A singular thing was that in Manitoba, when we went in, perhaps fifty per cent of the crop was cut, in the Saskatchewan country, quite seventy per cent was already harvested."

"You would have seen some good cattle up there," observed the reporter.

"Cattle!" echoed Mr. Walker. "Well the least I can say is that west of Battleford, I saw the finest steers I had ever set eyes on. That was up in a Galian settlement. The Galianes are peculiarly said to carry their cattle. Well, the steers I saw certainly looked sleek enough to have been carried."

The land between Battleford and Edmonton impressed Mr. Walker as the finest of all the Saskatchewan tract. "Although," he added, "the good wheat land is practically continuous with the river over its entire length. Even in the eastern section, completely out of the chinook range, the very finest of winter wheat is growing, grading up to No. 1 Northern. I will show you some sample of Alberta winter wheat in a moment. So far as winter wheat is concerned, it seems to be merely a question of leaving the poplar bluffs on the land to keep the snow from drifting off. And as to danger from frosts, well, there is scarcely a doubt that with cultivation of the land, the frost belt will go practically out of the Saskatchewan valley, just as it did out of Ontario."

COMING MONEY LENDERS

"You saw the Galian settlements—what do you think of them?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, by an accident of taking a trail we didn't intend to we drove fair through the great Galian col-only near Star. That is east of Fort Saskatchewan. The Galician farmer has been a revelation. He has quite justified his settlement in that country. I never saw nearer farm buildings. Of course, they have not bank barns as our Ontario farmers have, but their log-out-houses are compactly built. Their log dwellings are whitewashed, with floors of homemade cement, and the idliest thatches of rye straw imaginable.

"It has been predicted, Mr. Walker, that the Galicians would yet be the money-lenders of the Saskatchewan. Do you think so?"

"That would not be surprising," he said. "These people have thrived in industry, marvellous adaptability, and most amazing thrift. Besides, they have the very Eden of the whole country. The men who work as navvies on the Canadian Northern, are steady, sober and industrious. The girls who go out to service, and hundreds of them do—learn our language and adopt our dress and manners in an incredibly short time. Many of them, indeed, marry our Canadian and American settlers, and make good thrifty wives.

"Besides, these Galicians have the finest horses to be found anywhere in Alberta—and the Alberta horse is a wonder. One team drove ourselves 150 miles without changing between seven o'clock morning and nine the next evening."

SETTLEMENTS AHEAD OF RAILS.

"How far east of Edmonton have settlements begun to creep out?" Mr. Walker was asked.

"Quite sixty miles to meet the railroad. That of itself demonstrates the faith settlers have in that country."

"Next to the Galician colony what settlements surprised you most?"

"Those thrifty little American towns south of Edmonton," replied Mr. Walker, "they are neat enough to have been made to order."

Speaking of Edmonton Mr. Walker observed that the capital of Alberta had been revolutionized almost out of recognition since his first visit there three years ago.

EDMONTON AND CALGARY.

"When we built our branch there in 1902," he said, "there was scarcely a decent building to be secured. Now the little city is full of large handsome blocks that would do credit to Xonge street anywhere north of Queen. The people have all the progressive up-to-dateness of a large city. We attended the ball given there in celebration. In that little city of less than ten thousand every man and woman at that ball was splendidly dressed, and every one seemed to know exactly what to do and when to do it without a trace of awkwardness."

As to the country south of Edmonton Mr. Walker was disposed to consider it generally somewhat inferior to that in the Saskatchewan valley.

"The land gradually thins out toward Red Deer," he said. "But east and west of that is another magnificent country capable of almost anything. Calgary was a revelation of progress since my last visit there. No, I am sure Edmonton and Calgary need never be rivals in a commercial sense. Each is a metropolis and must be a natural distributing centre to its own vast area. Each will have its own transportation facilities."

WESTERN WHEAT TO JAPAN.
Of course," he added, "Southern Alberta will have some advantage in the way of shipping wheat and flour to Japan. And you may be sure that Japan is going to be a big market for Alberta wheat and flour."

Mr. Walker produced a small box of white wheat grown in the Red Deer district.

"As you see," he said, "this is good plump, hard wheat. But it does not grade up to the highest standard for flour. Here," untying a bag, "is the famous Red Deer winter wheat—much harder. This was grown in Southern Alberta and from a plot estimated at fifty bushels in the acre—Although that might run down to thirty bushels over a large acre. And here again is another variety called the Missouri Shultz, which also grows in Southern Alberta and by actual measurement produced 32 bushels to the acre on the farm of one man. Now these red wheats can be graded up to No. 1 Northern standard. With such wheat as these grown in Alberta there need be no fear as to a market in Japan for Western wheat and flour. For the Japs want the very best."

To any inquiry as to freight rates Mr. Walker said he thought he was right in stating that the rate on wheat to the East from Edmonton to Port Arthur would be no higher than from Brandon to Port Arthur, as per the old rates on the C.P.R. As to a Hudson's Bay railway he said Northerners were persuaded that it was bound to come.

NO STRINGENCY IN MONEY.

"Is money moving pretty freely in the West?" asked the reporter.

"As yet there is no stringency," said Mr. Walker. "The banks are able to handle all the business with ease so far. Later on, when the crops begin to move out there will be some tightening, but even that we anticipate no trouble to meet with our ordinary currency. Only in the event of wheat running above export prices and piling up in the elevators would it be necessary to go outside of ordinary bank currency for money."

But the banks of Canada," concluded Mr. Walker, "have been subjected to almost every strain incident to the expansion of a young country. They have carried the peoples' accounts through lean as well as fat years; through years when with a diminished supply of natural resources to fall back on there was never an ounce of improvements, from a wire fence to a railway."

"All though the lean years, we have spent money in Canada like lords, as though we were sure of a fat year from sea to sea that would put us square again. The fat year has come. The West has the fattest share of it. The Western merchants look to this year as the big paying-up year. For years they have been giving credit to settlers, not merely for the buying of implements and machinery, but also for investment in large holdings of land. This will be the settling year. So that it seems inevitable that this banner year of 1905 in Canada, with its immense surplus of natural products, will enable the country to put a substantial backing of natural wealth behind its tremendously increasing capital account."

TRAMPLED TO DEATH

FIVE YEAR OLD BOY KILLED

Young Son of Mr. J. Hagman, Farmer
North of the City, Killed Suddenly

Mots Hagman, the five-year-old son of Mr. John Hagman, a farmer just north of the city, was killed yesterday by being trampled on by a horse. In company with his two brothers the lad was playing in a field behind the barn from which he secured a horse and started to ride to the back part of the farm where his father was working. The lad is supposed to have attached himself to the horse by means of a rope circled.

He had gone but a short distance when he was thrown off and trampled to death. The other children conveyed the sad news to the mother.

The funeral will be held from the family residence at 7 o'clock tomorrow, service being held in St. Joachim's church at 2 o'clock.

THE BIG GAME LAND

Messrs. Wm. Short, John Brown, Fred Sacke and Dr. McInnes have returned from a trip to the Mountains. Mr. Short expresses himself as delighted with the trip. He says it is a great outing and one in which you are entirely removed from business worries. No telegram can reach you on an Indian trail where the only guide is a broken twig.

The party left Island Lake on August 21 in charge of Pierre Gray and a Stony Indian guide. They went across to the Brazeau river and followed it to the mountains. The greater part of the journey was made by pack train. Mr. Short says the Indians respect the dead body of every tree, and so the trail wound in devious ways through the woods around fallen logs.

The party camped at the Jasper pass. This is the big game country and elk, moose, and brown and gray bears were frequently seen. Beaver are very scarce having been almost exterminated by the Stony Indians who are great hunters. In some places quite large areas of ground are trampled like a barn-yard, where the moose and elk congregate.

There has been a good growth of timber, but it has been burned off and in some cases fire has been over it twice. Mr. Short is strongly of the opinion that a system of fire ranging should be established to protect the areas of timber. The country will make a land of ranches some day. The C. N. R. going through the Yellowhead Pass, he claims, will open up a large tract of very fine country. The weather was fine while they were away, but for one thunder storm which was simply terrific. About four inches of rain fell and it came down in sheets while the thunder rolled about among the mountains in an awe-inspiring fashion. The outing was thoroughly enjoyed by all the members of the party.
